SPONSOR INVITATION

Dear Sponsors,

It is a pleasure to invite you to participate as a sponsor in the 13th European Nitrogen Fixation Conference (ENFC), which will be held 18-21 August 2018 in Stockholm, Sweden.

This European based biennial congress brings together scientists from diverse research topics of biochemistry, microbiology, computational genomics, plant physiology, and more recently genetic engineering and marine microbial oceanography. The first ENFC was held in Szeged, Hungary, in 1994, with an emphasis on participation by young researchers. The most recent ENFC was a clear demonstration of 'research without borders' as 294 participants, 30 % of which came from outside of the EU, including 8 % from developing countries, attended the 12th ENFC in Budapest, Hungary. 29% of the participants were PhD students. The value of the ENFC series has been proven over the years; although a smaller congress by today's standards, it has drawn the participation and presentation by leading experts on biological nitrogen fixation (BNF). The programme combines classical topics within the BNF field (e.g. biochemistry, evolution, signal transduction, N fixing symbioses) with highly relevant and timely topics for modern society (e.g. climate change, present and future use of BNF in agriculture).

Satellite meetings, such as one on the Genomics of Nitrogen-Fixing Organisms, will provide extra benefits for ENFC participants. The end result of the ENFC is an attraction of a diverse group of participants. Furthermore, support enabling the participation of young researchers has been provided as per tradition.

The combination of these events will provide a unique platform to share and discuss latest scientific achievements on nitrogen fixation and the molecular interaction between plants and symbiotic microorganisms. Join us to meet the students, post-docs and senior scientists who will present their hot research topics and key institutions.

The venue of the congress is München Bryggeriet, located in Stockholm, Sweden. So in addition to the scientific programme and the collaborative discussions, the participants will experience a stimulating social programme in the capital of Sweden. We expect approximately 300 participants to attend.

We look forward to welcoming you in Stockholm!
